Why Did I get admitted to a university?

A university is an institution that provides facilities for higher learning and has the authorization to grant higher academic degrees that we call Bachelor degrees. In university, I get to choose a particular subject to acquire knowledge on a higher basis. University is not just about learning and all about getting degrees, it has much more to offer in our future or daily life. We get to choose a particular career while getting admission to a university. We meet new people and create opportunities for us. To study in a university we need to adapt to a new place and the people around us. With this one, we gather experience about new things.

For me getting myself admitted to a university is to apply myself to new challenges. And for the challenge, I had chosen Software Engineering as my career. Before choosing this subject I thought for many days will that be okay, or will I face any issues If I can not become successful and these things.

I always admire new people around me and my classmates are persons that I need to experience what they think and what they want to do in the future. I want to acquire knowledge as much as I can while studying at this university. I want to make myself independent. Gathering knowledge and acquiring skills is one of the most obvious reasons for me to get myself admitted to a university.

To make a good person out of me I have chosen to study at a university. To make myself smart and create upcoming opportunities good for me I want to make myself able to do something great.
