Why we come to university?

We come to university with lots of expectations, everyone does I also have lots expectancy from my university.

Usually in our country after completing higher secondary level we entered into the university life. Post-college years are a critical period for personal development. The freedom that comes with college is essential for learning how to handle life after leaving behind familiar relatives and friends.

A necessary thing is aside from professional life's preparation, higher education is vital for developing new friendships, gaining study skills, navigating personal decisions, exposure to diversity, and becoming a responsible adult. In this periods of life I want to be more skilled. Having good friends is necessary for developing my networking skills.
